

Abstract

An optical source includes an optical emitter with an encapsulant covering the optical emitter. A diffractive element is integrated into the encapsulant, wherein the encapsulant passes an optical signal from the optical emitter to the diffractive element.